Forty-five teenagers in the intermediate and senior high fellowships of Gering First Methodist church have qualified for a trip to Chicago May 26 to June 1.

Money making projects have been promoted since fall to finance the trip. A bus has been chartered but $250 is still needed to meet the $1,100 bus cost.

In order to raise this amount, the youth groups will distribute 1,000 tickets to a June 8 barbecue. The tickets will go on sale today in Gering with four teams of sales representatives working under the direction of Captains Terry Ryan, Barbara Flohr, Cathie Zier and Glenda Hall.

It is also the hope of the young people that this promotion may bring about $600 into the church treasury toward removal of the sanctuary unit indebtedness.

During the last three months, interest in the excursion to Chicago has mounted until the big problem for the sponsoring youth council is to determine the number of "eligibles" who intend to go so others whose qualifications are slightly under the expected number of points may make plans.

Eligibility for the week-long adventure, according to a plan developed by the council, calls for regularity in church school and worship attendance, participation in the youth program and exemplary citizenships. Secretaries of both intermediate and senior youth groups have tabulated points of eligibility week after week.
